LITERARY NOTES.

The first printing office in the United States was set up at Cambridge, Mass., in 1639, by Stephen Daye. He did not, however, print a book till 1640, when he published the "Psalms in Metre, translated for the use of the saints, especially in New England." It is a very rare book, less than half a dozen copies being known to exist.

In nearly all the large capitals of the world there have sprung up during the past half dozen years agencies which furnish newspaper clippings at a specified price. The agency subscribes for a very large number of newspapers and often in several languages, and provides to literary men, artists, actors and politicians all references made in the papers to them. Subscribers also file lists of subjects upon which they desire information, and in this way authors, compilers and others obtain a vast quantity of matter, carefully sorted and dealing with their subjects from dozens of standpoints.

Strange to say, China, that nation which of all others, holds literature (that is to say, its own dry-as-dust classics concerning a remote past) in highest honor, has so small a thirst for news of the present day that it produces fewer papers than any other nation with the smallest claim to civilization. The proportion of newspapers to population is in the ratio of about one publication to 2,000,000 inhabitants. The Chinese empire produces only twenty-two periodicals, of which twelve are in Chinese, nine in English, and one in French. Even in this small number the circulation is extraordinarily small, and, as a rule, a newspaper may be said to be a thing unknown to the four hundred millions of inhabitants of the Celestial empire.

There is good evidence that the first printed poster was from the press of Faust and Schoeffer, the immediate successors of Gutenberg. When Count Adolphus of Nassau attacked Metz as a competitor for the archbishopric of that city Diether von Isenburg, his rival in possession, being compelled to retire, affixed a declaration of his rights to the portico of the palace and upon the church. This printed document, which was styled "The Declaration of the Elector Diether against Adolphus, Count of Nassau," bears date 1462, and being unquestionably from the press of Faust and Schoeffer, is probably the earliest printed poster. It is printed only on one side. The sheet is two feet in length, and nearly sixteen inches in breadth; the text embraces 106 lines, and the printed surface is 18½ inches in length, by 12½ inches in width.

In a New York cellar a man keeps rare and old copies of newspapers for sale. On shelves are hundreds upon hundreds of bundles of papers, yellow with age, many of them, and all tanned to a decorous gray by the thick coating of dust collected during months of quiescence. The customers include literary men, journalists, clergymen and also "cranks" of every description, who are interested in some particular subject and have heard there is a mention of it in such and such a paper. Sometimes a man will offer $5 for some old paper he is eager to get. The dealers buy files of old papers from people who advertise them or who are in possession of them. As a rule they ask an exorbitant price, and it is hard to treat with them at all. There is the most demand for the daily papers of some years back. Sometimes a paper only a week or two old is asked for. Illustrated periodicals of certain dates to make up complete sets for binding are also in constant demand, and every now and then a complete file will be asked for, but that is a difficult thing to procure.

STATE NEWS.

The Millville Mutual Marine and Fire Insurance Company, of Millville, has ceased writing policies and the business will be closed up as soon as possible.

The Capitol Rebuilding Commission met at Trenton last week, when six plans were presented. That of L. H. Broome, of Jersey City, received the prize of $200 and was accepted. The dimensions of the building are 60 by 166 feet, or 90 feet longer than the old building.

Monmouth County Agricultural Society Fair will be held at Freehold, N. J., on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Sept. 8, 9, and 10, 1885. Premiums, $8,000.

During a recent freshet a package of Paris green lodged on the meadow of David H. Chamberlain, near Flemington. His cows ate of it and four of them died.

One of the finest Presbyterian church edifices in Monmouth county is to be erected at Elberon, the gift of Mrs. Moses I. Taylor, of New York.

A controversy has arisen between the school trustees and Mr. William A. Torrey, which, it is feared, will abolish the public graduating exercises of the High School.

For $211,000 the Hoboken Land and Improvement Association has purchased from the Riparian Commissioners all the water front extending from the Delaware and Lackawanna docks at Weehawken. The total grant has a frontage of 4,220 feet and leaves the city without a public dock. By degrees all the land has been grabbed up and is now owned by private corporations.

In July, 1882, Superintendent Lockwood found himself at a depot in Monmouth without money enough in his wallet to buy a ticket home. He borrowed 50 cents of a store keeper, and gave his check on the bank for that amount. A few days ago, considerably wilted and travel-worn, having been at the State Capitol and divers other places, that check came home. It was three years old, and had the appearance of a veteran tramp.

The great trouble with preachers in this good day is that they are so elegant that they always refer to hell as the "burnt district." This sort of dignity is the starch of a shroud.

You say you have doubts; if you quit your meanness, I'll be responsible for your doubts.

A man never had a doubt but which, if he pulled it up by the roots, had a seed at the bottom, and that seed, sin.

You don't believe what you don't see. Did you ever see your back-bone?

I used to dance, but when I wanted a wife, I went to the prayer-meeting.

When the doctor says you can't live but an hour longer, you'll want just such a preacher as myself talking to you.

God bores through the top of a man's head to his heart, and on down to his pocket.

THE GREATEST OF THEM ALL.

The picture of GENERAL GRANT, which we presented to our customers Saturday was (as we expected) the greatest of all our past successes. Many dealers in the city offered us as high as 20c each for it, but all to no purpose, as we procured them solely for our patrons. As the rush for them has not abated, we have ordered our artists to strike off 25,000 more, which we feel will meet the great demand. In order that all may be accommodated, we shall continue the distribution one week longer. We hope that none will fail to procure a copy.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Everybody speaks in praise of our latest departure in Mixed Teas at 50c. per pound. Evidently we have struck a mixture which goes to the right spot.

COFFEE! COFFEE!

The Coffee which we offered last week at 25 cents per pound gave great satisfaction, many tons having been sold. Parties desirous of obtaining from that stock should apply at once, as it must soon be exhausted.

Elgin Creamery Butter

Only 22c. Per Pound.

They all try to beat us by claiming to sell the Elgin, when in fact they sell a cheap dairy, and when you tell them that you must have the best, they coolly charge you an extra two or three cents per pound. If you earnestly desire the Elgin Creamery at 22c. per pound you will find it only at the stores of
